By BRUCE CATTON

IN a time like the present the horizon is fairly cluttered up with signs and portents. None of these is much more significant than the sudden epidemic of strikes—an epidemic that has broken out in the last month or so and that is giving the federal doctors one of the busiest seasons they will ever have.

Delegation Asks U. S. To Purchase Half Cotton Crop

Urge 15 Cents Per Pound for 1933 Season's Production

RETAIL TRADE CODE

Johnson Prepares to Shift Organization From Campaign Work

WASHINGTON — (P) —

A special committee from the Cotton States urged President Roosevelt Thursday to order government purchase of half the present crop at 15 cents per pound as a means of raising prices and controlling production.

Senator Bankhead of Alabama, headed the delegation to the White House, after President Roosevelt sent word that he would see them.

Retailer's Code

WASHINGTON — (P) — Officials were waiting Thursday for reaction to the newly drafted code for retail trades before going forward to a definite decision on the demand of business for regulations prohibiting the sale of goods below the set minimum price.

Administrator Johnson meanwhile concentrated his attention on the status of the industrial control experiment, seeking to measure results so far to prepare to shift the organization from campaigning to administrative work.

Seek Hines' Removal

WASHINGTON — (P) — A quiet drive among some groups of American veterans for removal of Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, will culminate at the national convention of the American Legion in Chicago, October 2 to 5.

A survey of the actions of state Legion conventions, preparatory to the national convocation, Thursday disclosed the move against Hines as one of major issues to be fought at the Chicago convention, together with a demand for restoration of veterans benefits cut by the economy act.

The study of state convention actions showed that the demand of ex-service men for cash payment of the bonus which reached a climax with the nine to one favorable vote at last year's Legion convention, had largely abated.

Only five state conventions have called for cash payment of the bonus an almost complete survey showed, whereas nearly all have favored in one form or another the four point program advanced by the Legion's national rehabilitation committee for liberalizing the economy law.

Four state conventions have acted on resolutions calling for the removal of Hines, assuring his consideration at the national meeting. Two of them asked its removal outright, one adopted a resolution asking for an investigation of his administration and the fourth voted down the removal proposal.

Veteran opposition to Hines centers on the accusation that Hines' recommendations were responsible for what the veterans regard as the "drastic" economy legislation.

Cotton Exports Show Increase

Shipments From United States Gain in Volume and Value

WASHINGTON — (P) — Cotton shipments from the United States increased sharply, both in volume and value, during August as against that month of last year, says an analysis by the textile division of the department of commerce.

They dropped, however, in volume and value for August of this year under July.

August, 1933, shipments totaled 531,000 bales valued at $27,855,000, compared with 692,000 bales valued at $36,455,000 in July and 452,000 bales valued at $17,985,000 in August, 1932.

Larger takers during August of this year were Japan, United Kingdom, Canada and the Netherlands. The cotton export men lost business, the analysis showed, in Germany, France, Italy, China, Spain and Belgium.

LEIPSIG, Germany. — (P) — Incendiarism in the German Reichstag fire became a secondary issue and high treason was placed as the primary point Thursday as the supreme court trial of five men, charged with setting the fire last February, got under way. Decapitation was recommended by the prosecution as the penalty upon conviction.

MORE DEATH THREATS

Fall Term Court Convenes Monday Week, October 2

Four Murder Charges Are Principal Cases Appearing on Docket

BANK ROBBERY CASE

June Brashear to Get Hearing in First National Holdup Here

The fall term of Hempstead circuit court will convene Monday morning, October 2, at Washington, with Judge Dexter Bush presiding and Millard Alford, prosecuting attorney.

The docket confronting the fall session is not so large as for the spring term and the majority of cases set for this time are those continued from April.

Four charges of murder are set for trial in October as follows: Bessie Watts, Negro woman, charged with the killing of another Negro woman in Hope May 19.

Linsay White, Negro, who killed Isaac Scroggins with a heavy club northwest of Washington on July 14, and who was caught by constable Bob Carrigan the following day as he was attempting to leave the state.

Sarah Lloyd and her son, Jackson Lloyd, Negroes, held for the killing of a Negro preacher found dead in Hope one morning several months ago. Both are out on bond.

Henry Muldrow, Negro, held for the murder of a Negro named Williamson near McNab on September 9.

Another chapter in the robbery of the First National Bank of Hope will be brought up again in the trial of June Brashear, charged with being one of the number who participated in the crime and who has been brought to Hempstead county since the April term of court when the others were tried.

Also on the criminal docket is the case of Jeff White, charged with the theft of a car belonging to Dan Godbolt in Hope one night several weeks ago.

John and Jess Thornton, charged with assault with intent to kill in connection with a row north of Ozan a month ago in which a farmer named McKnight was badly cut by the pair.

Lillard Johnson, Negro, is held on a charge of assault with intent to kill in connection with the shooting of Arthur Barnes near McNab in the early part of July.

This covers the major criminal docket confronting the fall term of court with the exception of continued cases.

Washington Will Open Schools Mon.

Term Is One Week Later Than Usual—Faculty Is Named

Washington public school will open its 1933-34 session next Monday morning, September 25, with Mrs. C. C. Stuart, as principal.

The school is opening one week later than usual this year due to action by the school board two weeks ago in extending the date in order to give children living in the country an extra week in which to help their families in the picking of their cotton crops.

It is expected that a number of school children from Ozan and a few from Hope will enroll in the Washington school when it opens, those from Ozan coming to Washington to get the advantages of the eleventh and twelfth grades and those from Hope due to the present uncertainty of whether the financial condition of the Hope district is going to permit school opening without making its continuance dependent upon the payment of tuition by the pupils.

A tentative date of October 2, has been set for the opening of the Hope schools. Ozan schools opened two weeks ago.

Assistants to Mrs. Stuart in the Washington school are: Misses Kathryn Holt, Ellen Carrigan, Charlean Trimble, Mrs. L. L. Pilkinton and Norvell W. Kelly, of Delight.

619 Cotton Checks Up to Thursday

Only 25 Per Cent of Total Number Have Been Paid However

Out of a total of 2564 cotton checks due Hempstead county farmers for plowing up cotton, a total of 619 had been received by the county office in Hope up to Thursday morning. The checks are slow in arriving, most of them being now more than a month past due.

Sixty-five supplemental contracts—contracts where the producer later agreed to destroy more cotton acreage than he first contracted to, were accounted for this week. The supplementals were given distinction from the originals and farmers executing them, if they have not already done so, should execute certificates of performance for the first contract made, although it does not cover all the cotton plowed up. A number of farmers have held up this final execution of their contracts waiting for the supplemental to show up. The first should be sent off at once and the other will cover only the difference between the two.

The cotton acreage reduction program for 1934 will be handled through the various counties but the set-up under which the plan will operate has not been announced.

New Government of Dollfuss Is Sworn In VIENNA. — (P) — The new government of Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss, which marks a crushing victory of Austrian fascism over democracy, was sworn in Thursday by President Wilhelm Miklas.

The new administration program calls for economic rehabilitation, internal peace and external independence which means continuance of Chancellor Dollfuss' fight against union with Germany.

Projects Bigger Than NRA Talked In Washington

"Commodity Dollar" and Price-Fixing Are Being Considered

WORLD PROGRAM

Authorities Would Re-Value Dollar Every 30 Days If Necessary

By Associated Press

Projects regarded by economists as bigger than the NRA, bigger than anything the government has undertaken thus far, are under discussion in confidential conferences in Washington.

Among them is a plan for currency adjustment, probably on the general idea of the "commodity dollar," which would recast values all along the line.

Accompanying that, and in some degree coupled with it, is a proposal to greatly expand governmental price-fixing, perhaps encompassing all the principal commodities.

One feature of the new program is a possibility that it may become a world program, providing a continuing but flexible basis for both currency and prices in the international markets.

Details have not been settled, but it can be said positively that in the present stage no serious thought is being given to the issuance of "printing press" money, with no definite backing. That Mr. Roosevelt has been listening to senatorial advice on that subject does not mean he agrees with it.

He tried to pacify the senators who recently called on him by promising to take some action as soon as the time was ripe, but he promised nothing more.

Commodity Dollar in Favor

The "commodity dollar" method of dealing with the currency is looked upon with much favor in high quarters, although it should be borne in mind that actual decisions remain to be made.

As it now is under discussion, the plan would be to fix the value of the dollar every thirty days by presidential proclamation, on the basis of the current value of all commodities, for which a consolidated index figure would be kept by government statisticians.

This value would have a relation not only to gold, but to silver. The actual operation of the plan, as now envisaged, probably would mean the coining of currency on a basis of three parts gold to one part silver.

That, as the economists explain it, would mean in effect the revaluation of the dollar, but along lines not hitherto widely discussed.

Under present legislation, the president has authority to order revaluation, and some of his legal advisers, at least, think the authorization would permit revaluation every thirty days if found desirable. That would mean that the "commodity dollar" could be set up without further action by congress, and prior to the meeting of congress in late January.

It's Technical

The whole project is so immersed in economic technicalities that only the experts pretend to understand just how it would work out, and they do not agree.

Perhaps the nearest anyone could come to explaining it in general terms would be to say that whereas money has been more or less valuable in the past in relation to the fluctuations of the value of gold, under the "commodity dollar" system the value of money would be determined on the basis of the average value of wheat, steel and many other things, including gold and silver.

Many consider a necessary accompaniment to such a system would be a broader authority for price-fixing. That is proposed as a method of partially controlling commodity fluctuations and hence currency fluctuations.

No hasty decisions are likely. The president is investigating and considering. Everyone thinks he will do something, and the best-informed believe that during the next few weeks much more will be heard of the "commodity dollar"—under that name or some other.

Floyd's Impersonator Is Slain by Officers

TULSA, Okla. — (P) — Clarence Hays, 24, escaped convict who officers said had impersonated Charles ("Pretty Boy") Floyd, notorious outlaw, and committed a series of robberies in eastern Oklahoma, was shot and killed when he refused to surrender to officers near Burnsall, Oklahoma.

Hays escaped from Granite reformatory in 1932 while serving a 10-year sentence for automobile theft.

Among the crimes charged to him was the $30,000 jewel hold-up September 7 of Charles Welzmler, St. Louis jewelry salesman, near Broken Arrow, Oklahoma.

Monkey Sees Fair

Capuchin, a little black spider monkey with a gray beard, was chief attraction at the Chicago World's Fair for a day when he escaped from a concession and eluded policemen, Fair employees and visitors in a chase through the grounds. Finally he took refuge among the lofty girders of the sky ride, as shown above, where he defied efforts of a structural steel worker to capture him. Finally Capuchin went home of his own accord.

Rumored Revolt in Cuban Area

Heavier Guards Placed Around Presidential Palace

HAVANA. — (P) — Two American warships drew in close to the city Thursday as the revolution-born regime set up 11 days ago made hurried but complete preparations to withstand a rumored revolt.

The vessels, which came here to protect American lives and interests, at once established heliographic communication, using lights atop the United States embassy and aboard the craft.

Cavalry re-inforcements, a mobile arsenal on a truck, extra guards, and machine gun units were placed about the presidential palace as reports persisted that civilian anti-government forces and soldiers prepared to fight.

An army truck brought rifles and ammunition to headquarters of ABC radical society members, who thereupon went to police headquarters as re-inforcements supporting President Ramon Grau San Martin.

In the face of these and other preparations the executive declared that "everything is all right; I am staying right where I am."

Reliable sources predicted that a climax was fast approaching in the many troubles the president and his supporters have had.

Since he took the helm September 10 Grau San Martin has found an ever-stiffening line of opposition among five of Cuba's most powerful politico-revolutionary factions.

Urschels Answer Machine Gun Kelly In Kidnaping Case

Fugitive Appears in Oklahoma, Threatens Colemans and Shannons

STIR IN COURTROOM

Says Plans Made to Destroy Urschel Family Following Trial

OKLAHOMA CITY. — (P) — Fred Coleman, at whose father's farm near Stratford, Okla., the government alleges the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping plot was hatched, told federal judge Vaught Thursday that George "Machine Gun" Kelly, sought in the kidnaping case, appeared at Coleman's farm late Wednesday night and threatened death to the Colemans and to the Shannons.

Members of the Shannon family are among the defendants along with Harvey Bailey, Albert Bates and others who are facing trial.

Coleman talked to the judge privately after creating a stir in the courtroom by trying to make the statement.

The development came after the first direction admission that Kelly and Albert Bates, on trial Thursday, had brought Urschel to R. G. Shannon's farm near Paradise, Texas.

This disclosure was made in a statement signed by Shannon's son, Armon, and read to the jury by government counsel.

Urschel's Reply

OKLAHOMA CITY. — (P) — An electrifying defiance of government by the Charles F. Urschel, also known as George "Machine Gun" Kelly, death threats Thursday as the government moved into its case against a dozen others on trial for conspiring in the oil millionaire's kidnaping.

"We are in this fight to the finish," said a spokesman for the family as a letter from the fugitive Kelly, who has been called "a human rat" by Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan, was made public by Keenan and the Urschels.

Kelly's letter of hate, bearing his fingerprints and apparently written by his wife, Kathryn Cleo Kelly, also wanted for the kidnaping, warned that the Urschel family will be "brutally murdered," and informed Urschel that Harvey Bailey and Albert Bates, outlaws on trial, will be "out for the ceremonies—slaughter."

At another point it said: "I am getting my plans laid to destroy your so-called mansion and you and your family immediately after this trial."

To this the family replied: "We have thrown our lot with law and the government. The Urschel family does not want one moment's delay in giving gangland its answer."

Meanwhile District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde drove toward the announced goal of completion of his case by nightfall.

Already Urschel has told the accusing story of his nine-day imprisonment on a Texas farm, with Kelly and Bates branded as the machine gunners who kidnaped and held him last July, and the millionaire's associate, E. E. Kirkpatrick of Tulsa, only Wednesday told of paying the $200,000 ransom to Kelly last July near a south side Kansas City hotel.

Bailey, accused originator of the kidnap plot, will take the stand in his defense, his attorney, James H. Mathews, announced.

Arriving Thursday, before any member of the Urschel group had testified, the Kelly letter, government authorities surmised, had been timed to intimidate them and prevent their giving complete information about the events of the kidnaping. The letter was sent by airmail from Chicago, it officers doubted that it had been mailed by either Kelly or his wife.

It was postmarked at the same time a letter threatened death to the R. J. Shannon family and signed similarly with Kelly's name and fingerprints: "R. G. Shannon, his wife, Ora, and his 17-year-old son, Armon, also are on trial in the kidnaping case. They operated the Texas farm where Urschel was held."

Bates and the Shannons also may testify.

Dealers Plan Sale of Liquor After Repeal

WASHINGTON. — (P) — Thousands of retail merchants preparing to protect themselves in the sale of spirituous, malt and vinous liquors upon the apparently certain repeal of the eighteenth amendment have organized the National Association of Retail Beverage Dealers with headquarters in Washington.

Already state organizations have been set up in Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Ohio and a number of other states, and association officials said indications were that 200,000 of the 750,000 licensed beer retailers will join.

Sixteen accidents, on American air passenger lines occurred at night, while 32 occurred in the daytime.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

Shiny, white teeth are something to make you proud. Dull, discolored ones detract from the charm of your smile and cause people to whisper that you aren't quite as fastidious as you should be.

Of course, you should brush your teeth two or three times a day. And the manner in which you brush them is all-important. Everyone should have dental floss in the medicine cabinet in the bathroom and it should be used often. There are new tooth-brushes which have hollow handles designed to hold a little dental floss. They're ideal for traveling.

Always brush your teeth up and down—downward strokes for the upper ones and upward strokes for the lower ones. That way, you do not push the gums away from the teeth. Dentists tell us that pushing the gums away from the teeth sometimes causes serious gum disorders.

Your gums should be massaged occasionally too. Put a little toothpaste on your forefinger and carefully rub the gums around the bases of your teeth.

Choose your toothpaste for its cleansing and polishing value rather than for its taste. Ask your dentist to suggest a good one.

See a dentist two or three times a year and have all cavities filled just as soon as they appear.

WE--

the full-time employees of the

Geo. W. Robison & Co.

Store of this city, take this method of expressing our appreciation to the public, whose splendid patronage during the past several months has made possible the whole-hearted co-operation this store has tendered President Roosevelt in his appeal for the assistance of the employers of the nation, and the buying public, as well, in furthering the cause of the National Recovery Act.

We feel that had all employers been as considerate of their employees, not just since the NRA, but throughout the nearly twenty years history of the Geo. W. Robison store, that there would have been no need of the Recovery Act, in so far as wages were concerned. And possibly prices and markets and values would not have tumbled so distressingly.

You will recall an announcement that no salary increases were required for this store to come up to the minimum set for all stores before they could become members of the NRA. We are glad that it has always been the policy of this store that we were entitled to a living wage, though the temptation to cut to the bone must have been great these last three or four years.

Of course our hours are now shorter than ever before the NRA came along, but it was only a few years back that all stores opened at six o'clock in the morning, and closed at nine, keeping all employees on hand all day long.

Although no additional employees were needed at the time of signing the code, several full time, and many part time employees have been added since that time, in order to care for the splendid patronage of recent weeks. We hope to continue to make new friends for this store, because we believe our styles, values and quality merit them.

Our store is now starting planned selling efforts to acquaint you with the new Fall styles we are now offering. Especially to show you the savings offered here because of early purchases. Here in the store we realize, possibly more than our customers, how rapidly prices are going up. Therefore we heartily recommend that you come in—investigate the new values, see the new styles, and make as many of your purchases as possible before our present stocks are sold out and prices go up more. For we know that most all of our stock is selling at less than replacement price on the present wholesale markets.

Because we are appreciative of the patronage you have given us, we heartily recommend that you save by making your Fall purchases at our store now. We give you our own assurance of full value. We are doing our best to maintain and enhance the leadership of this, the leading department store.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

War Against Unfair Prices Being Fought on All Sides.—Consumers' Advisory Board Gets Busy. Secretary Wallace Scrutinizes Profits on Milk and Meat. Senator Long's Explanation of That Attack U. S. Pay May Rise.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—The war against unfair prices is being pushed here on all fronts.

It is partly stimulated by officials genuinely interested in the consumer, but gains added force from the general realization that the recovery program won't succeed if prices outstrip purchasing power.

The sudden drive for the consumer may seem astonishing in the light of past performances, but to become yet more surprising. There's a widespread disposition to look closely into the books of industry to determine how fair prices and profits really are.

NEA's Consumer's Advisory Board now has a stronger set-up under direction of Dr. Dexter M. Keezer. It is demanding that cost and price information be provided at code hearings and that consumer representatives serve on the authorities administering codes.

Price-Fixing Opposed. It will fight price-fixing in codes except for such badly disorganized industries as oil and coal and where selling below cost is forbidden, will insist that the public be informed as to what the costs are.

Both the C. A. B. and Oil Administrator likes are committed to preventing gasoline profiteering under the oil code.

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is far ahead of the C. A. B. in the consumer protection campaign. Administrator George Peek and Consumers' Counsel Fred C. Howe moved vigorously to stop textile profiteering when they threatened federal prosecution for those who misrepresented the added cost of the cotton process tax.

Fight to Restrict Profits. Secretary Wallace is anxious to reduce the middleman's spread on milk and his staff is demanding that access to the meat packers' books be provided in their marketing agreement as in others.

Howe's Consumers' Guide.—first number just out—is an impressive document, showing prices of principal foods in 21 cities, measuring the benefit actually received by farmers through increased prices and giving the spread between producers and consumers. Anyone who writes Howe for the Guide can receive it every two weeks.

Howe's Explanation. Road Senator Huey Long's new weekly newspaper and you'll realize one of the sources of his political strength back home.

It is broadly hinted that the attack on Huey at the Long Island country club was the murderous work of ruffians employed by the House of Morgan and letters from readers leave no doubt that many people in this country are willing to believe just that.

A Busy Cabinet Wife. One cabinet wife is showing such incredible zeal in running her husband's department for him that there may be an explosion before long.

The explosion might lead to the cabinet member's resignation.

Federal Pay May Rise. Federal employees hope for restoration of half their 15 per cent pay cut by January in recognition of higher living costs, and all of it by July.

Many of them plead for more restoration than that. Take a man with the above-average salary of $1800 in the Supply Division of the Treasury Department for example. From his pay envelope he first misses a 3 1/2 per cent, or $63, deduction for the retirement fund. Next the general 15 per cent cut, in his case $270. Then a compulsory 27-day furlough lops off $159. By that time his salary is only $1248. Such cases are common.

YOUR CHILDREN

"Caroline, please keep your hands out of that flour. I can't use it if you touch it again."

Caroline dipped up another handful and let it filter through her fingers back to the pastry board.

"Stop that, Caroline."

"I don't have to. You're not my mother. You're paid to work here."

"Well, it won't be long if you are going to be in my way all the time."

"I'm going to tell mother what you said. When you came I heard her say she wouldn't have you if you weren't kind to me."

"Be a good girl. Here, I'll let you shell peas if you like. Where I used to work the little girl liked to shell peas."

A Reprimand for Maud. Caroline looked at the peas and without condescending to answer walked out of the kitchen.

A little later her mother came in. "Jennie, I can't have you being ugly with Caroline."

"She was spoiling good flour," said Jennie. "And I couldn't throw it out. There's just enough left for the bread tomorrow."

"Please remember then that she is only a little girl. You must learn patience. She is very easily hurt."

After dinner: "Jennie, we are going out. I want you to stay with Caroline."

"Very well, Mrs. Lake," said Jennie, who had planned to see her sister's new baby.

"It's your bedtime, Caroline," said Jennie at eight. "Come and I'll help you get undressed. Your bed's all turned on."

But Caroline turned on a new tune and sat down.

"Really you must go. If you don't and you're all sleepy in the morning your mother will blame me."

"I don't have to go until I feel like it."

"If you don't go I'll have to explain it to Mrs. Lake. Come on, now. Don't let's fuss. Be a good little girl and I'll tell you a story."

A Tiny Tyrant. Caroline regarded her curiously. "Tattle tale. That's what you are!"

"That's impolite and unkind."

"I don't have to be polite to you. You just work here. I'll tell mother you threatened me and she doesn't allow that."

The precocious child kept this up for a month and finally Jennie left. "She was a very good maid," said Caroline's mother, "but she was impatient with my little girl."

"Oh," said the lady telephoning. "That won't do at all. I have two children and I must have someone who is kind."

I wonder if any mother knows exactly how her children are treating the human beings with hearts and feelings who do her work.

An Ancient Formula Beyond Compare

For more than a century an ancient brewing formula has reigned supreme. Through four generations it has produced a beer pronounced by judges as beyond compare. That secret formula is responsible for the amazing old-time goodness only to be found in Falstaff. The mystery is in the blending and processing. The choicest ingredients, of course—but always in the exact proportions of that old-time formula. And only Falstaff knows the secret!

That's why Falstaff is the one beer absolutely uniform and identical, whether from bottle or keg. You will instantly acclaim it as

by Lucy Walling

EVERETT YATES, a young man, a-appearing manager of Dixie's de-claiming that he will remain at least a year to complete his change of a construction job in the Adirondacks. It will require at least a year to complete but Eve refused to give up her work and go with him.

MOVA ALLEN, copy writer, dislikes Eve and is constantly causing trouble at the office. She is responsible for several mis-takes for which Eve is blamed. Mova is friendly with THOMPSON REED who continues to force unwelcome attentions on Eve. Unknown to Dick, Eve has been playing the stock market, but she has lost her own savings and $400 Dick left in the bank.

Mona invites Eve to dinner and then convinces her to take her to a roadside cafe. There, Eve meets a man who she thinks is Dick. He leaves the others, becomes lost and the night at the roadside home. Next day Reece telephoned and frightened Eve by declaring he is in love with her and is intend-ing that Dick has been trying to seduce her.

Eve is lonely and misses Dick. She begins to wonder how Dick should not give up her work and go to him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XL

THE night before Thanksgiving Eve ate dinner in a down town restaurant and then went to the library where she selected two of the newest books to read over the holiday. It was one of the evenings when she missed Dick dreadfully and wanted to put off going home. But when she finally arrived at the apartment she found a letter from Dick waiting for her on the hall table.

He wrote that he and some of the others had driven to Old Forge for the Thanksgiving turkeys for Mrs. Williams who kept the boarding house. They had attended a movie, the first Dick had seen since he left Lake City. He added that there would be 20 at the boarding house for Thanksgiving dinner—the men from the construction camp and a number of school teachers who took their meals there.

Was it jealousy that Eve felt when she read that sentence? She had pictured Dick as living in a man's world entirely. This was his first reference to the school teachers. Eve hoped fervently that all of them were middle-aged and unattractive, and not in any way like Dorothy McElhinney.

Eve spent Thanksgiving day with Mrs. Penney. They attended services at the Little Stone church together and then boarded a trolley which took them to the artist's home. Mrs. Penney had rented the second floor of a two-family house near the college her daughter attended. Eve could not refrain from complimenting her on the attractiveness of the rooms.

"Jean made those hooked rugs," Mrs. Penney said proudly. "And she made the draperies for the windows, too. Those pictures are some of my work, done before my marriage."

"Jean has a great deal of artistic talent," Eve commented.

"Yes," answered Mrs. Penney. "Her father was an artist, too, but he died when Jean was a baby."

EVERETT refrained from asking questions and busied herself preparing salad for the dinner. Jean and a young man who was a class-mate joined them after the football game and Mrs. Penney set the boy to work mashing the potatoes. Another girl and boy soon arrived and Mrs. Penney assigned them tasks. It was a merry dinner and the young people were so amusing that not once did Eve feel a pang of homesickness.

The boys washed the dishes. Apparently they were quite at home in Mrs. Penney's flat.

"They are all from out of town," she explained to Eve. "And I mother them a bit. But they understand I must give most of my energy to my job and if they want to play here they must help with the work."

Jean and her friends left late in the afternoon to attend a tea dance. Mrs. Penney invited Eve to curl up on the davenport while she pulled a small Windsor rocker closer to the fireplace.

"It must be a great satisfaction for you to have Jean!" began Eve.

"I don't know what I would have done without her!" nodded Mrs. Penney. "She is all I have lived for these last 17 years. And she looks so much like her father. That is my greatest joy. I believe she has inherited his ability too. If he had lived I am sure he would have become one of our finest artists. His work at the time of his death was beginning to attract wide attention."

Eve was interested. She had wondered about the little woman with the brave, smiling face and gentle manners. Eve had always thought there must be an interesting story concerning Mrs. Penney. She encouraged her to go on.

"Jean's father studied in Paris and when he returned to this country he taught art classes in Chicago. He had gone there to study, and was one of his pupils. Perhaps we could never have been more than acquaintances if we had not attended an artists' hall where fate or chance sent us together in an old-time circle two-step. We danced in perfect harmony and my heart as well as my soul took wings. Jean comes naturally by her love for dancing."

"After our marriage I continued to study art, but in private. We were extremely happy and when little Jean was born it seemed life could hold no greater happiness. Jean was just learning to say 'Daddy' and watch for him in the window at the close of day when he became ill. It was pneumonia and he was gone within the week."

Mrs. Penney's voice broke. Then she raised her chin in the manner Eve had noticed was characteristic of her and said calmly, "This is no subject for a holiday, Mrs. Rader. Shall I turn on the radio?"

IT WAS twilight and the room was lighted only by the flickering glow from the fireplace. Eve, nestling among the pillows on the comfortable davenport, begged her to go on with her story.

Mrs. Penney continued. "That is life, Mrs. Rader. Sometimes we get our greatest joys when the skies seem brightest. But sometimes, too, when it seems we cannot go on, things suddenly make a right-about turn and the path is cleared ahead. Always there is something left to make it worth-while for us to go on. Usually it is some other person."

"Little Jean and I have known some hard times. For more than eight years I met defeat at every turn. It was not so bad while I had my health. But when my health broke it was extremely hard to earn enough for us to live on. I let myself believe only the encouraging reports of those who had suffered similarly and determined I had not yet reached bottom. Each night I prayed that I would be able to get up next morning and to do the housework and take care of Jean. It seems a small boon to ask but it was a very important one. My recovery was complete and I shall try never to complain about anything again so long as I have health and the opportunity to earn a living."

WHAT was it the minister had said that morning in church? "You ask for some living manifestation of God in our midst. Can you not see for yourself the sacrificing mother who forgets self in the interest of her child?"

There had been more, of course, but that one sentence of the Thanksgiving sermon stood out in Eve's memories, coupled with Mrs. Penney's story. What an infinitesimal thing the loss of dollars and cents seemed compared to the obstacles this little woman had had to battle alone! What a triumph over adversity was hers. Eve felt her own aims trivial after Mrs. Penney had finished her story.

When Eve reached home that night she wrote a long letter to her husband.

"And so," she wrote in conclusion, "after my talk with Mrs. Penney I've decided to give up work here and come to Pine Forest if you want me to and if there is a house available. I don't suppose there is such a thing as an apartment to be had there."

Slowly, with unsteady fingers, she folded the pages and placed them in an envelope. Tomorrow she would tell Earle Barnes that she was through at Dixie's. She would sacrifice the dream that had been hers so long—the dream of seeing her name on the door of a private office above the words, "Advertising Manager." She would sacrifice all that for Dick.

Yes, Eve told herself, she was willing to forget her ambitions if Dick wanted her. "If he wanted her!" The words seemed to form themselves into a litany which sang itself over and over again in her mind.

'Adorable' Opens Saenger Thursday

Janet Gaynor and Henry Garat Are Co-Starred in Picture

Heralded as one of the outstanding motion pictures of all time, "Adorable," starring Janet Gaynor and Henry Garat, opens Thursday at the Saenger theater. It is the first American film to claim the talents of the famous international star, and the fact that he is co-starred with Miss Gaynor promises something of the unusual in screen entertainment. The story of the film is said to give America's most popular actress her best opportunities. It calls for extreme capabilities in acting, singing and the dance. In her quest of the handsome soldier of the guard, Miss Gaynor reveals talents hitherto not credited to her. American audiences will probably remember Garat for his dual portrayal in "Congress Dances."

This, however, is his first appearance in a domestic production destined principally for American audience.

The supporting cast is headed by C. Aubrey Smith, veteran character actor, and Herbert Mundin, one of the leading comics of the screen. Others in the large cast are Blanche Friderici, Stuart Holmes, Albert Conti.

Three short units complete the program.

Why sell your cotton now -Prices should advance!

● The Administration promised pre-war parity prices . . . about 12c a pound . . . and has the power by inflation or other methods to put it there.

At present prices, we have about 3c per pound yet to go . . . UPWARDS.

1. The 1933 "plow-up" campaign reduced acreage and should better the price.
2. The 1934 crop control campaign (to be announced this month) should boost the price again.
3. Better business conditions under NRA should increase consumption of cotton . . . thus favorably affect the price this Fall.

You do not have to sell your cotton now

● You can HOLD it and get the benefit of any future RISE . . . and yet draw a liberal ADVANCE immediately.

Our CALL POOL permits you to sell your cotton any day you please. Our SEASONAL-VALUATION POOL gives you the benefit of average seasonal profitable sales.

If you MUST sell now, we have an Immediate Sale Pool through which we make immediate full settlements. And remember whichever way the market goes, it is to your advantage to get accurate classing and full premiums for the quality of cotton you produce.

Tells How She Lost
15 Lbs. of FAT
Rheumatism Gone Too
Here is a woman who was rapidly putting on weight and who was troubled with rheumatism too. Read her letter:
"I started taking Kruschen Salts because of the good it had done for a friend of mine who had been crippled with rheumatism. At the end of the second bottle I was weighed and find
I am now only 148 pounds (original weight 163 lbs.), at which I am so pleased. But I have also felt my rheumatism much less, which has been so troublesome in my knees. I must say I think Kruschen a splendid weight reducer." (Miss) E. L. P.
Overweight and rheumatic poisoning often go together. The six salts in Kruschen assist the internal organs to perform their functions properly—little by little ugly fat goes slowly, yes—but surely. You feel wonderfully healthy, youthful and energetic more so than ever before in your life!
Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all drug stores—a jar last four weeks and
